Waveland officials considering Jourdan Estates water extension

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Waveland officials are considering extension of water service to Jourdan River Estates residents.
The subdivision is located about two miles north of Waveland's city limits and immediately west of the confluence of Jourdan River and Edwards Bayou. Two representatives of the subdivision's property owners association appeared at a Wednesday night Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting asking city officials to consider the water service extension.
W.L. Rummels, association member, said Waveland could remedy a "dangerous situation" by providing water lines to some 95 residences in the area.
He explained the community's water well and lines are "small and the well pump is about kaput."
"We need help and we need it badly," Rummels stated.
Rummels reported Hancock County Health Department officials have warned residents of impending health hazards if the system is not replaced.
"The health department says our water pipe is OK, but its size is too small," he stated.
Rummels explained that the original water system was designed for fewer homes.

"If it's economically feasible, we will spend what is needed to run a trunk line to our area," Rummels said.
William McInnis, the other JRE representative, explained the area has no land available to drill another well and even if a new system were installed, astronomical water rates would result.
Waveland is now in the process of installing an almost $1 million Farmington Home Administration loan to construct a water system in the northern portion of the city primarily to serve the rapidly developing US40 business district.
Bay St. Louis to the east of the subdivision apparently could not provide water to the development, with water still unavailable in some areas of the city annexed more than 10 years ago.
Mayor John Longo asked Lucien Gex, city attorney and judge, to investigate the legality of extending water service outside the city limits.
Gex noted that under a 1963 agreement with United Gas Pipeline Co. the city is providing natural gas service to several Kiln and Slidell Park residents.
Kiln is about 10 miles north of Waveland.

Longo speculated the city's new water system after completion could provide "sufficient" water pressure to Jourdan River Estates residents.
The mayor said he would discuss the feasibility of the proposal with Ray Eaton of Lewis, Eaton Partnership of Jackson, engineers for the system expansion.
"I feel like the engineers would work up a cost estimate for us as a favor," he stated.
Longo said even if rates were relatively high in order to recover costs in providing water to the area, insurance rates would drop with the installation of fire hydrants.
Residents would have good clean water and fire service. We don't make any money transmitting water, we just meter and maintain the system," he noted.
"I feel like it's the only way for you to go. It's good business for the City of Waveland. We'd be more than happy to help you," Longo stated.
Gex said he planned to finalize paperwork for the FMHA loan for water improvements in the northeastern section of the city, adding, "If the idea is feasible, now is the time to provide water to the subdivision area."

Rummels said FMHA is receptive to funding an independent water system for the community, but monthly water bills which could range upwards to $30 and lack of property prohibits that alternative.
Longo recommended the JRE representatives meet with city officials and Eaton at the next board meeting Tuesday, Feb. 2.
Rummels stated, "You're the only people who are in a position to help us."
McInnis added, "A lot of retired people on fixed incomes are living in our area."
In other business at the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting at City Hall, the board:
-Approved a property redemption sought by Julian M. Sherouse in which he "payed" delinquent property taxes amounting to $159.
-Approved removing from city tax records an erroneous approximate $30 assessment levied against Ellis Cuevas.
-Approved a recent audit of city financial records as of Sept. 1981, conducted by Moore and Powell, Certified Public Accountants of Bay St. Louis.
-Approved a request by Donald McIntyre, fire chief, to advertise for bids for several new fire hoses for the City Fire Department.
-Took no action on a written request by Irene Hille, Hancock County Historical Society president, requesting a 10-foot by 20-foot room to establish a historical tourist information center.
Longo suggested a portion of the planned new wing of the Waveland library be utilized to house the center.
Heard a report from McIntyre that the department personnel will overhaul Engine No. Two which has not been repaired in six years and build a partition in the Station No. Two bunkhouse to form a storeroom. He estimated materials for the partition would cost about $260.

WALKING POSTMAN—Letter Carrier Bob Harvey had to walk to deliver a letter to his last customer on Harrison Road off Blue Meadow Road Friday because of fence posts in the street. Nuclear foes place hopes on proposed legislation

By BRENT MACEY
A new bill expected to be introduced and passed in the State Legislature this term will delay firms from testing salt domes in Mississippi for their potential use as sites of nuclear waste for 10 years, Sen. Flint said.
"I think it's 90 percent sure that a Nuclear Waste Control bill will be passed," Flint said.
"It will set up stumbling blocks to testing that will take ten years to get through," Flint said.
He noted Rep. Bill Wilkerson of Lumberton, chairman of the House Conservation Water Resources Committee, and Rep. William E. Andrews of Lamar County will introduce the bill in the house.
Senators Bob Wiley of Gulfport and A.C. (Butch) Lambert of Hattiesburg will be introducing the bill in the Senate, Flint said.

Hancock Rep. J.E. Compretta also stated Friday that he thought the bill would pass.
"I think of like voting against mom and apple pie, nobody wants to have people coming down here and dumping waste in Mississippi," he said.
Compretta said he is not thoroughly familiar with the bill, but noted a subcommittee of the Conservation and Water Resources Committee is working out particulars.
Compretta, who is a member of the committee, questioned how effective the bill would be in preventing the United States Department of Energy from deciding in favor of continued testing at the Richland salt dome in Perry County.

State Senator Martin Smith who represents Hancock also is unfamiliar with the proposed bill and would not comment on how effective its passage would be.
A special House Senate Nuclear Waste Oversight Committee recently decided against attempting to place a ban on testing in Mississippi.
Committee members and Wilkerson felt the DOE would continue tests in Mississippi simply by passing an injunction against any ban passed by Mississippi legislators.
For that reason they are now working on this new bill which, Flint said, requires so many applications and qualifications that it would give anyone a headache.
Compretta feels the greatest hope lies in an attempt by U.S. Rep. Trent Lott to pull "some strings" in Washington.
But Flint feels very optimistic about the bill.
He noted the bill calls for the establishment of two committees under the State Energy and Transportation Board.

One committee would be called the Nuclear Waste Policy Council, Flint said.
That group would set state policy in regard to the nuclear issue and would be composed of representatives from the governor's office and the attorney general's office.
Another committee would be called the Technical Review Committee. It would make up technical policy and would be composed of heads of departments in the state including the Department of Wildlife and Conservation, Department of Natural Resources, the Department of Mental Health, and some 10 other state department heads.
Flint noted this committee would also include five members of public interest groups.
They (the technical committee) would require some 30 application qualifications from anyone interested in coming into the state with nuclear waste, Flint said.
Flint noted CAND will have five offices in five southern Mississippi counties.
He noted the bill would require economic impact statements and other types of advanced mitigation which would "take the burden of proof in their hands," Flint said.

Mid-road fence posts isolate homeowners

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The residents of four homes located on Harrison Road near the Jourdan River were left without an entrance Thursday night when fence posts were installed in the road.
Walker Gex, attorney for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, said Friday, "I cannot understand how this thing got this far. I advised the property owner, Mrs. Irene Hille to have the fence posts removed until this can be discussed at the next meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors. I also spoke to Mrs. Hille's attorney." Gex was contacted by Supervisors Sam Fennell and Bert Courgeon.

Senate approves new district plan

By BRENT MACEY
The Mississippi Senate voted 17-7 in favor of a new Senate District plan which will include 22 of Hancock County's 24 precincts in a sprawling district extending from Farmington to Ocean Springs.
The plan was approved by the House in a 10-10 vote.
Hancock Sen. Martin Smith noted the plan approved by the Senate is an amended plan to the one initially proposed by a Special Joint Legislative Committee on Redistricting.
The committee's original proposal included all 24 precincts in Hancock County and 10 precincts in Harrison County.
Smith said the Senate plan will include Grand Creek and Lee Town with all of Bay, River, and Stone Counties and Bay and Harrison in Harrison County.
Smith will be the incumbent in that district. The new District II will have 22 precincts.

Smith said the new district was amended to include the Grand Creek and Lee Town precincts in Hancock County and the five northern Harrison precincts originally proposed to be included in District II.
Smith said the Senate plan also includes the Grand Creek and Lee Town precincts in Hancock County and the five northern Harrison precincts originally proposed to be included in District II.

He noted the employees reported the fire after spotting smoke rising from the building.

As Lizans inspected damages he said he did not know when Norman Cowart, a deputy fire marshal, would inspect the fire scene, but speculated an investigation might begin that afternoon.

Edward Whavers, a North Bay janitor, braved smoke and flames to extinguish burning stacks of paper in the principal and secretary's offices and the library with a school dry chemical fire extinguisher.

Most of the burning paper was apparently various office records. Books in the school library were not damaged by the fire, but smoke permeated three rooms.

The janitor said he was cleaning classrooms at the school Saturday, had left the school for about 15 minutes and returned to find flames and smoke in the offices and library.

Whavers reported he was able to utilize a fire extinguisher hanging in the principal's office to extinguish the flames.

The janitor credited his quick action to firefighting classes he attended while employed at the National Space Technology Laboratories.

School officials had not yet assessed losses which apparently included destruction of stacked records, newspapers and various desk materials and some office machinery damaged by heat.

The fire chief noted a hole was burned through a desk drawer in the principal's office.

Lizans speculated the arsonist ignited fires in five or six locations in the three rooms—apparently with a cigarette lighter or matches.

A fire department pump truck and eight firefighters responded to the blaze.

McCullough at the scene commended the Bay fire department for its quick response to the call.

Firefighters extinguished smoldering paper and removed smoke from the rooms with portable exhaust fans.

OFFICE FIRE—Inspecting the results of a Saturday afternoon blaze gutted an administrative office and the library at North Bay Elementary School are Lt. Gerald (Rusty) Price III, left, of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department and J.D. McCullough, Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District superintendent. Alabama fugitive nabbed here

A Bay St. Louis man in Hancock County Jail under no bond awaiting extradition to Alabama where he will face charges of robbery and kidnapping.

Jimmy Sullivan, 25, of Shoreline Park was arrested at 6:10 p.m. Wednesday by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department at US-90 in The Bay.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Sullivan was arrested after he picked up a check from his employer in a Pass Christian boat yard and was heading west on the highway.

Peterson stated his department received information over a teletype that Mobile police were searching for Sullivan in connection with a kidnapping and robbery of a 68 year-old woman in Alabama on Monday.

"They (Mobile police) felt that since he lived in this area he would be coming back here," Peterson said.

An investigation by the sheriff's department after receiving the teletype revealed that Sullivan would return to Pass Christian to pick up a check.

Peterson stated a number of syringes and what appeared to be a controlled substance were found in Sullivan's automobile when he and Investigator Alvin Lachner stopped Sullivan's car to make the arrest.

No charges were filed by the sheriff's department due to the extradition.

Peterson said Sullivan was on parole after serving five years in the Mississippi Penitentiary in Parchman for a rape conviction.

Bits 'n pieces

It sure has been foggy for the past few days, especially Monday.

Even with the fog there are some people ignorant enough to burn leaves and cause more hazardous conditions for motorists.

We hope all motorists will be extremely careful during the foggy weather and drive a little slower than normally.

Small-business Angle

LET CONGRESS VETO REGULATIONS

When Congress passes legislation and the president signs it into law, that is but the beginning of the process. Elected officials have nothing further to do with how that law is implemented. Instead, appointed administrators and career bureaucrats take over and write the regulations that bring the law to life.

In the regulatory explosion of the '60s and '70s, regulatory agencies mushroomed. Some likened them to a fourth branch of government. For small-business owners the result was an avalanche of paperwork with which they were not prepared to cope.

Since 1974, the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) has been surveying members quarterly to determine the main economic problems they face. Government regulation has consistently ranked among the top four. Some regulation is necessary, but too often those writing the regulations do not understand the impact of their work on those they regulate. In many cases, regulations go beyond the intent of the Congress.

As part of an effort to reform regulatory procedures, Congress will soon consider a concept called "legislative veto." The idea is to give Congress the power to reject any rule or regulation that goes beyond the original intent of the law.

"oversight" responsibility for the laws it passes, but oversight as it exists cannot remedy the excesses of the federal bureaucracy because Congress does not have the power to keep regulations from taking effect.

For small business, legislative veto would provide an avenue for appeal which does not now exist. Large corporations, with their teams of lawyers, statisticians and computers, can work directly with regulatory agencies or even go to court to challenge unfair or inequitable regulations.

The small-business person cannot afford to do this. A legislative veto, any person or group who is not strong enough to take his case to his seniors in the bureaucracy.

Legislation is the province of the top priorities of the White House Conference on Small Business. President Reagan has assigned in favor of the idea. The NFIB polled its half million members, they responded overwhelmingly in support of the legislative veto.

Now, members of Congress will decide whether or not they will accept responsibility for the effect of the laws they create.

Wilson S. Johnson is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Lizana answers critics, reports no apology forthcoming

Jan. 22, 1982
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

The Editor,

I would like to know why our concerned teachers of the Association of Education, chaired by Lynn Parker, are so burned up about my "insidious" criticism of the band directors' in-district travel reimbursement, although they made no mention of my criticism of the insidious lithering practices of some members of their association.

Should this spate also be swept under the school buses along with the other litter and be allowed to accumulate unchecked?

At no time have I questioned Band Director Glen Page's character or his professional ability—only his paycheck which is paid with tax dollars, and a bit of which comes out of my pocket in the way of taxes.

In reference to Page working for less than minimum wages, I would like to put my own back and take credit for the below minimum wage, for me and my truck. I earned about 5 years ago to clean up our now despicable bus lot.

I was told that the district was broken and to take it easy. Desiring to be a help to our school system I cleared it for about half the cash of a bid price.

Not too long ago my wife was on the phone at 3 a.m. to notify the police that someone was stripping the buses.

Several times after the buses have been parked by their careless drivers I have gone over and turned out lights.

Once I called at 9:30 p.m. to report burning truck lights and at 11:30 p.m. they were still burning. No remuneration.

I feel sure Page and Assistant Band Director Hamilton are doing a superb job, but without a superb group of kids and the untiring efforts of many band mothers, what would their accomplishment be? Zero.

Yes, the band parents are being reimbursed just knowing they have a fine bunch of children, and equally so the band directors should be happy to realize they are being reimbursed with a worthy group of students who enhance their professional efforts.

Two of these students are my grandchildren, so why should I take pride in our band?

During conversation with the mother of one of my young critics—I feel quite sure that she will verify this—that in spite of the fact that she asked me to retract my criticism, I offered whatever help I might be able to give in support of our band and that offer still holds.

It's great to know that our band is the best and was chosen to represent not only Bay St. Louis, but the entire state in the Washington Cherry Blossom Festival.

No, I am not so delatol as to expect our band to share its well-earned laurels with the other good bands in our county.

I don't feel that I have done anything for which I owe an apology, especially under blatant pressure of arrogant demands from a group whose only concerns seem to be their own.

If I remember correctly, the school board's pocket was designed to be a monthly report on a monthly basis, and should I find something today, I consider unusual I see no reason why I should have to wade through the red tape of policy, procedure and perhaps never get my answer.

Since I have not been proven guilty as charged I feel this is nothing more than a conflict of opinions, and due to the fact that a small part of every paycheck issued in our district comes out of my pocket in the form of taxes—and in view of constitutional privileges of equal rights, I feel that I should have equal privilege to express myself.

Apparently I have lost a battle but I refuse to surrender the fort.

Thanks,
Earl Lizana

Civic association president feels Echo headline was misleading

January 21, 1982

To the Editor of the ECHO:

I should like to point out that the headline of the front page article in the January 21 Echo concerning my presentation to last Monday's meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, in my view, is misleading.

I did not "allege" favoritism in supervisor road allocations. I did say that their "modus operandi" appears to be more reactionary than planned, that is, improvements seem to be made as a result of individual requests rather than as the result of overall planning.

Also in the middle of your article your reporter changed my name to "Parker" for some reason; otherwise the substance of his article is reported accurately.

Since other points that I made in my presentation were not reported, I should be grateful if you would print my letter to the Supervisors in its entirety. Then my complete statement to them can be judged for its validity.

Garden Island Community Association

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the full text of Mr. Page's Jan. 13, 1982 letter to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

To the Hancock County Board of Supervisors

Sir:

As citizens of Hancock County we members of the Garden Island Community are looking forward to responsive and accountable county government in 1982. And we have a special appeal to make.

We would appeal to you members of the Board to be more communicative to the public in terms of your overall planning for the year, your specific priorities in those plans, and the anticipated budgets needed to accomplish those plans.

We often feel uninformed about any specific plans and priorities any of you might have either for your individual beats or for the county as a whole. This may be our fault, of course. We may not attend enough meetings or read the local paper thoroughly enough. We are sure that each of you have your own plans, goals and priorities in mind, but we present we are unaware of them.

Also we believe that each of you are honest, sincere and competent and that the county runs smoothly under your direction.

However, when the public's point of view is not heard and appears to be taken into account, then planned improvements are rejected, postponed, what ever you feel is justified—but it is difficult for the public to fit the action into an identifiable place in an overall plan.

To state the problem in another way, say that a citizen or community group makes a request to the local supervisor. The request may or may not be deemed possibly depending upon the urgency and relevancy of the need, the reputation of the requestor, the funds available, and the good will of the supervisor.

This system often works well to get numerous small matters accomplished, and the recipients are very grateful. But this system has the appearance of being a "favor-asking, favor-granting" type of operation.

We would really like to have information as to how our requests fit into a planned schedule.

We are certainly agreeable to being put in a well-publicized, orderly list, but we want to look at the action taken not as a favor-asking and favor-granted but as a citizen's or community's right to be on that list and eventually to get the action taken.

Furthermore, we don't want to judge a supervisor's performance merely on what he has done on our pet projects in our own area. That is simply not fair; we want to judge him on what progress he has made in scheduled improvements throughout the beat.

One of the purposes of the community organization that I represent is to identify our community's problems and to present our needs to our best supervisor (Mr. James Travaris) in an organized fashion. We do this primarily to avoid the bombardment of our supervisor with numerous individual requests.

And it works, and our supervisor has been very responsive to our community's requests, but it would be helpful for the citizens to know how our requests fit into future plans and what priority they have.

Then we would like to know periodically what progress is being made towards action on our requests.

An example of the type of summarized information that we want is:

—What are the anticipated county revenues (including federal revenue sharing funds) expected for road and bridge improvements in '82?

—What improvements are scheduled and what are the priorities?

—How much was expended last year; what was accomplished and how did that compare with expectations?

I can assure you that the citizens of the community are interested in your operations, and they are watching and listening. But at present it is difficult to compare plans with progress and to find the place in the plans for the satisfaction of our community needs.

Let us know when you have planning sessions. We'll be there. I know that you have hearings on how certain funds should be spent, but after the hearings, let us know what you decide. Please understand that the intent of this letter is to be constructive. We are confident of your good will.

Sincerely,
L.A. Page

Open letter to the Citizens of Mississippi Dear Fellow Citizens of the Great State of Mississippi:

I need your help and support in my fight against the imported fire ant.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) may not approve the conditional use of Terramycin, unless they are made aware of our need for control here in Mississippi.

Mississippians are suffering from an explosion of the imported fire ant population.

I get calls in my office daily telling me of losses due to fire ants. Children and adults are endangered. All agriculture is affected, livestock as well as row crops. Wildlife is endangered. Problems include personal property as well as financial losses.

It was reported to my office that a lady from Scott County had to be away from her job for three weeks and incur medical bills of $2,200 for illness due to fire ant stings.

Follow citizens. Incidences like this must be prevented.

Take action in this challenge personally. Send your bank. Write to the EPA about their problems with the imported fire ant. Write to: Dr. John A. Tomlinson, U.S. EPA, Washington, D.C. 20460.

Your taking five minutes to write a letter will help us win the battle against the imported fire ant.

Without your letters to EPA to show our dire need, the EPA may not approve our conditional use of Terramycin. It will be through the support of your letters that we will win our battle against the imported fire ant.

Take action by writing Dr. John A. Tomlinson. Tell him of the problems caused by the imported fire ant and of our dire need for the conditional use of Terramycin.

Please join me in the fight against the imported fire ant. Respectfully,
John A. Tomlinson

Patriotism in America is changing, growing, alive and well

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, entitled "American Patriotism: Dead or Alive?" by L. H. Gann, senior fellow at the Hoover Institution, Stanford University, is supplied to the Sea Coast Echo by Public Research, Syndicated of Carmichael, Calif.

America, the experts assure us, is in a state of spiritual malaise. No less a personage than former President Carter told his countrymen in a much discussed address in 1979 that the United States was passing through a profound crisis of confidence.

A sense of despair had struck at the very heart, soul, and spirit of the American people. A widespread loss of national purpose and confidence in the future threatened the very fabric of society.

President Carter is not alone in his assessment. Concerned clergymen, professors, artists, and television personalities continue to echo this assessment.

America, according to its critics, is a land stricken by despair and discontent. The poor, the young, and the black are alienated from the nation at large.

Even the whites are in a state of despair.

The widespread "ethnic revival" reflects disenchantment with WASP culture and the WASP Establishment on the part of white ethnics and their descendants.

This "sense" of disenchantment is particularly widespread in the academic America. My (Gann) has become the arch oppressor of the Third World.

Moreover, they contend America has always oppressed the newcomers who had sought refuge within its own borders.

Immigrant history of the academic kind has, accordingly, undergone a striking revision.

The story of migration has turned into a tale of misery, successive waves of immigrants—Irishmen and Jews, Poles and Italians, Chinese and Japanese, Haitians and Mexicans—were cut off from their roots, confined to slums, exploited in farms or factories, and stripped of human dignity.

The reader close to the heart of the matter is wondering why any foreigner should ever have wished to come to this country in the first place.

To an immigrant, such as the author himself, the politics of this kind make odd reading. The migration of Europeans to the United States in the nineteenth century was the greatest population movement in history.

Not only did the newcomers come of their own accord; many of them braved extreme hardships to do so, as the boat people from Cuba, Vietnam and Haiti continue to do to this day.

What makes them come? Surviving letters from the nineteenth century, now gathering dust in archival collections, speak an eloquent language. The newcomers then, for the most part, liked America; they liked its political institutions.

They equally prized its economic and social freedom. They could move from place to place as they felt the inclination or the need; they could carry on any trade or business they fancied, unhindered by the regulations of royal officials or of guilds.

No one cared what they had been or what their fathers had done for a living.

Conditions in America might be harsh; but they are usually better than those the immigrants experienced at home.

The vast majority of newcomers accordingly stay in the land of their adoption, even after they have acquired sufficient funds to buy a ticket home.

According to the critics of America, however, those happy days are over. Today, the rich get richer; the poor get poorer; the class structure steadily grows more rigid. Yet scholars who specialize in the field find no evidence for these assumptions.

Barry Chiswick, an economist, for instance has established that European immigrants who stay in this country for extended periods of time end by doing better, on the average, than native-born Americans.

Far from remaining rigid, the American ethnic structure is being transformed in a revolutionary manner.

According to Andrew M. Greeley, a distinguished sociologist, the average family income of many ethnic groups once subject to social and economic discrimination has now risen above the national average.

The average family income of Jewish-Americans, Japanese-Americans, Irish-American and Italian-Americans, for example, all now exceed the average family income of "old stock" Anglo-Saxon Protestants.

Not is there any evidence of massive popular discontent with America's political and economic institutions?

On the contrary, recent studies undertaken by various research agencies (published in the June-July issue of Public Opinion) arrive at startlingly different conclusions.

Americans—as always—are apt to distrust their politicians.

But American patriotism remains a powerful force, much stronger than in any other Western country. An enormous majority of all respondents (80 percent) are proud to be Americans.

These sentiments are not limited to whites. In fact, 83 percent of the whites and 65 percent of the blacks stated that they were "extremely proud" of being American.

Eighty-four percent (80 percent of the blacks) believed that their country had a special role to play in the world.

Ninety-four percent (86 percent of the blacks) considered that the United States was the world's "very best country in which to live"—this after two decades of much heralded racial unrest and at a time of continuing inflation and unemployment.

Americans of all colors prize their constitutional liberties highly. They equally distrust socialism.

Given the unpopularity of multi-national corporations, agribusiness and corporate capitalism in the academe and in many branches of the entertainment industry, the Americans' commitment to free enterprise came as a surprise.

Ninety-one percent of the whites and 65 percent of the blacks agreed that "the U.S. business system works better than any other for industrial countries."

Critics of America have equally misunderstood the nature of the so-called ethnic revival in this country. There is indeed a growing interest in ethnic traditions.

But the current delight in Oktoberfests and zithers, tartans and pibroch, Swahili surnames and bongo drums has little to do with national

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

A while back you said wage increases without an increase in productivity caused inflation. What about deficit spending? I thought that was the cause. Confused. But trying.

Dear CBT: Don't feel lonesome, along with feeling confused. You are not alone—as a matter of fact if you could pin them down, most economists would admit the same dilemma.

Deficit spending, as advocated by Keynes (John Maynard) for the economy going through its depression, is a policy that, since it causes more borrowing, is the cause of inflation.

But Keynes noted that inflation would result from deficit spending and regarded a small rate of inflation as a healthy sign of economic growth.

So deficit spending is not in itself the culprit—runaway deficit spending, as anything else done to excess, may very well become a villain.

Most of us owe what little financial success we may enjoy to hard work and the fact that we borrowed wisely to finance a home and possibly a "business" or income producing property.

This borrowing was deficit spending, but it was done within the ability to repay and was not for consumer goods or property that decreased in value.

So deficit spending for the right things at the right time is good. But borrowing to maintain a standard of living we could never hope to afford

Tigers, Bearcats reach finals

EDITORS NOTE: Due to the Saturday night starting times of the championship round of the Bay High Invitational Basketball Tournament, the Sea Coast Echo was unable to include the results of those contests in today's edition. Results and photos will appear in next Thursday's edition.

Friday night action in the Bay High Invitational Basketball Tournament saw the host team Bay High Tigers run past the St. Martin Yellowjackets, 47-38 to earn a spot in the finals of the tournament, played last night.

The Long Beach Bearcats, Vancleave Lady Bulldogs, and Hancock North Central Hawkettes also reached the championship games with victories in the semi-final round Friday night.

Darrell Robinson led the Tigers with a game high 22 points followed by teammate Pat Barrett's 11 points.

Bay High built a 25-15 halftime advantage and held off a late charge by the Yellowjackets in the fourth quarter as St. Martin outscored the Tigers 13-12, too little, too late.

Long Beach, the Tigers opponent in the finals, whipped Hancock North Central, 65-37, outscoring the Hawks 32-9 in the second half after a close and exciting opening half.

Vince Spencer's game high 21 points paced the Bearcat scoring. George Tompkins tossed in 12 points as Long Beach eliminated the Hawks.

Neil Ladner led Hancock with 14 followed by Brian Arcement with 7 points.

The Hancock North Central girls edged the Pass Christian Lady Pirates, 34-31 behind the 10 points of Betsy Arcement.

Tammy Dedeaux led Pass Christian with 10 points.

The Hawkettes trailed 20-16 at intermission but out shot the Lady Pirates in each of the final two frames and won by 3 points.

In a very close game all the way, the Vancleave girls outlasted the Lady Bearcats, 31-29.

THURSDAY ACTION
Three of the five opening games of the first round of the Bay High Invitational Tournament turned out to be thrillers, with two games in Thursday night action ending with only a slim one point margin separating the victors.

The Bay High School girls varsity game against Vancleave was the first close match of the evening.

With 20 seconds left in the final quarter, the Tigerettes were behind by only one point at 34-33.

The Tigerettes attempted to stall the game until the final winning shot.

But that shot missed and Vancleave went on to play again Friday.

Vancleave's Tracy Neal was high scorer in the game with 13 points.

Tigerette Dina Benoit had 13 points for the evening.

The St. Stanislaus vs. St. Martin boys' game also drew the crowd to their feet.

With only two seconds left in the ball game Stanislaus was out in front by one point but lost the ball due to a traveling violation.

St. Martin passed in bounds and a jumper from the outside bounced off the basket rim just as the buzzer sounded.

Tony Bennett saved the day for St. Martin by leaping high and tipping the ball in for the final two points of the game to give St. Martin their 45-44 victory.

St. Stanislaus' Billy Walls was high scorer for the game with 25 points and teammate Shannon Carr had 13.

St. Martin's Tony Bennett scored 12 and John Peck had 10.

The Pass Christian boys varsity team made a good showing against their tough Long Beach competitors.

The lead changed hands several times in that game and The Pass lead by four points late in the final quarter.

But the Long Beach Bearcats turned on the steam in the last few minutes and regained the lead to take the ball game by a score of 52-48.

Hank d'Aquila hit for 19. George Tompkins scored 11 and Alex Lawson had 10 for the Bearcats.

Brent Cannon had an excellent night for the Pirates scoring 32 points.

The Bay High School boys game was a runaway contest. The Tigers downed their Vancleave opponents 58-26.

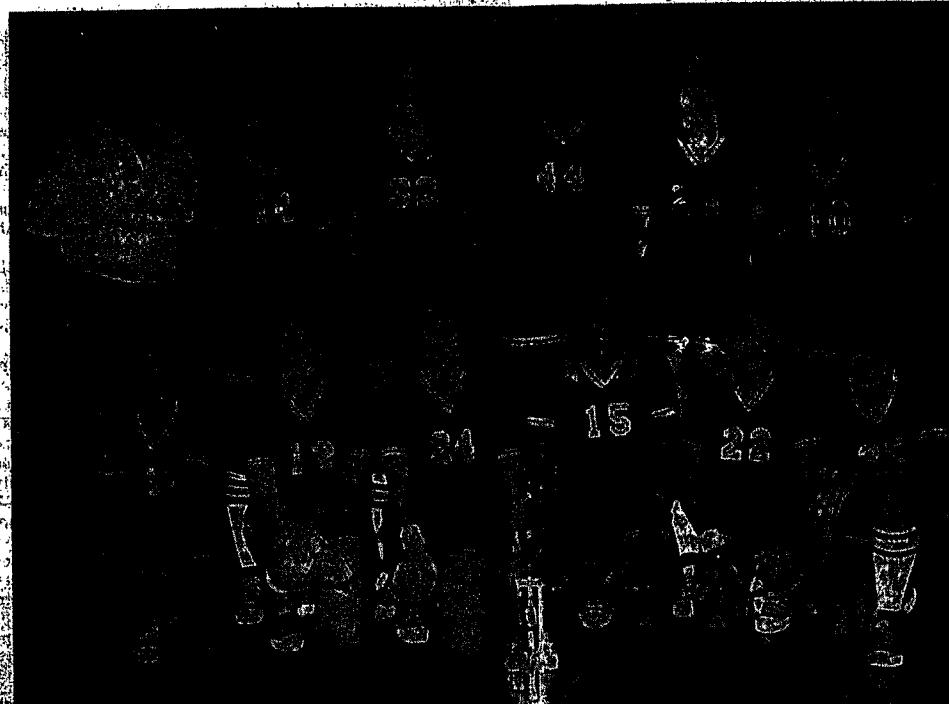

Tiger Pat Barrett hit for 16 and Darrell Robinson had 10. Bulldog Phillip McMillan had 14 points and Johnny Briggs hit for 10.

The Pass Christian girls opened the evening's play with a 49-37 victory over their St. Martin opponents.

The game was close at the end of half time play with Pass leading by a slim two point margin.

But in the second half the Lady Pirates put on the pressure and walked away with the victory.

Tammy Dedeaux scored 18 points and Fran Jacobs and Jennifer Bradley each had 13 for The Pass.

NUMBER ONE SEED—The Bay Junior High ninth grade girls basketball team is the number one seed in the Deep South Conference Junior High Basketball Tournament currently in progress at Vancleave. The girls have a perfect 5-0 conference mark and are 10-1 overall. In December the Junior Tigerettes won the Poycune Round Robin Tournament by defeating Poycune, 28-20 and Pearl River Central, 38-28. In their last

TOURNAMENT BOUND—The Bay Junior High ninth grade basketball team is participating in the Deep South Junior High Basketball Tournament in Vancleave which began Wednesday and will continue thru this weekend. The young Tigers are seeded number two in the tournament with a 6-1 conference mark

COAST VISITOR-Dwight Clark, starting wide receiver for the San Francisco 49ers in today's Super Bowl, is no stranger to the Gulf Coast. Clark was present when his girlfriend Shawn Nichols Weatherly became Miss USA at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in 1980. MS Weatherly later became Miss Universe. Clark returned to the coast last year as a judge in the 1981 Miss USA Pageant. A 10th round draft choice from Clemson, Clark led the league in pass receptions this season, his third year as a pro and helped to propel his team into the Super Bowl by catching the winning touchdown against Dallas in the NFC championship game. MARKETING TIPS FOR JANUARY

SOYBEAN SITUATION
Soybean prices continue to show slow improvement. Further improvement will depend on how the economy performs with respect to domestic inflation, interest rates and consumer spending power. The economies of countries that buy U.S. farm commodities also are important.

OUTLOOK: Marketing Specialist Stuart Bufkin said the big unknown factor in the soybean market at present is demand, both domestic and foreign.

"A quick turn around in the economy would be a great stimulus for agriculture, and a little extra demand would carryovers significantly and improve prices," he said.

ADVISORY: Bufkin said farmers should weigh the results of the annual crop summary released this month and watch for a grain stocks report. Both reports should affect prices.

"Another factor to watch is soybean planting intentions for 1982," Bufkin said. "Fewer beans planted would be bullish. A final factor will be the crop outcome in the southern hemisphere. Bufkin said indications are the crop is in excellent condition at present.

WHEAT SITUATION
U.S. and Mississippi farmers planted a record high winter wheat acreage in Mississippi. 120,000 acres of wheat have been planted, 5% percent more than in 1980-81.

OUTLOOK: "The U.S. Department of Agriculture is still projecting a 300-million bushel carryover for June 1, 1982," Bufkin said. "With a record crop forecast and a near billion bushel carryover, prudent farmers already have sold at least one-fourth to one-half of their 1982 crop forward."

ADVISORY: Farmers should evaluate the profit potential in new crop wheat and sell at least a portion forward," Bufkin said.

RICE SITUATION
Marketing Specialist Stuart Bufkin said there is no current activity in the rice cash market.

OUTLOOK: Mississippi farmers should watch for the February release of rice planting intentions. Bufkin said indications are that Mississippi farmers will plant about the same acreage as last year. ADVISORY: "Evaluate all market strategies for new crop rice based on costs for growing rice," Bufkin said. "Evaluate also the profit potential in a forward contract if contracts are offered and also the possibility of hedging a portion of the crop in the futures market."

COTTON SITUATION
Cotton markets flashed some signs of strength in late December and early January. Three factors contributed to the improvement, including speculation that the government will announce a 15 percent reduced acreage program in 1982, increased volume of cotton moving into the Commodity Credit Corp. loan program and a post-harvest rally associated with bear markets.

"The real leader in this market has been the December contract," said Marketing Specialist Dr. O.A. Cleveland. "This implies the market has responded to the Department of Agriculture threat of a reduced acreage program."

OUTLOOK: There are still considerable bearish fundamental factors," Dr. Cleveland said. "Consumption is at an all-time low and little relief is seen for up to six months. Too, U.S. cotton remains 3 to 4 cents above foreign growth in the export market. The export picture may not be as bright as some suggest."

CATTLE SITUATION
Some improvements in cash markets have occurred but uncertainty still clouds the situation, mainly because of the unfavorable conditions in the general economy.

Farm prices paid by some major processors increased early in January to the 60-cent level from 55 cents. Some processors are looking to the 1982 price. There is no indication that the 1982 price will be higher than the 1981 price.

"Trade sources are reporting a strong demand for beef in the spring," said Marketing Specialist Dr. Michael Jones. "Wholesalers are reluctant to buy ahead or hold inventory, but as the economy improves, demand for beef is expected to increase. Some indications are that prices may reach the recent peak level in the near future."

POULTRY SITUATION
Marketing Specialist Dr. Michael Jones said that the poultry market is in a state of flux. "There is no clear trend in the market," he said. "Prices are fluctuating and are expected to continue to do so for some time."

MARKETING TIPS
Marketing Specialist Stuart Bufkin said that farmers should be aware of the market conditions and make decisions accordingly. "The market is volatile and farmers should be prepared to adjust their strategies as needed," he said.

Nuptial Mass unites Page, Woods

Ruth E. Woods became the bride of Junior Roy Page in an afternoon ceremony on January 9 at Infant Jesus of Prague Catholic Church in White Cypress.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Woods of Pass Christian. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Roy Page of Gulfport.

Rev. Pierre Hisey officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated a Nuptial Mass before an altar flanked with bronze tree candelabra decorated with white cypress.

Mable Strozewski of Chalmette, La., provided musical selections. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with A-line styling and scooped neckline outlined in lace. Full Bishop sleeves of sheer white crepe were adorned with re-embroidered Alencon lace and ended in deep cuffs closed with covered buttons. Her three tiered waist-length veil of silk illusion with matching lace appliques fell from a tiara of white silk roses and lace.

She carried a bouquet of white carnations and blue

German statice. Mary Woods of Pass Christian, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor.

County agent addresses Pass Gardeners

"Have your soil analyzed by the county agent before you do any planting or fertilization," advised D. C. Fleming, county agent, Harrison County, speaking before the January meeting of the Pass Christian Garden Club.

Mr. Fleming told members that during the winter months lawns can be cultivated so that the spring grass will grow to a thick carpet. He also showed slides on fertilizing and planting.

Mrs. Thomas Shea, third chairman, gave an interesting presentation on how we can care for lawns during the winter months. She brought a bird pudding that may be hung in the trees for the birds to eat and gave the members the recipe for this.

Mrs. Daniel Semple, won several ribbons in the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's Christmas show for her entries in the horticulture division.

Hostesses for the January meeting were Mrs. H.L. Hammett Jr. and Mrs. John Simpson.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Roderic Carter, Mrs. Jack Christenson, Mrs. L.L. Denson, Mrs. Drury Dragon, Mrs. R. Daniel Jacobs, Mrs. Edward Dinkelspiel and Mrs. A.E. Lasseigne.

Six preachers to be featured on Baptist conference program

Robbins is on the faculty of Mississippi College, and Tolbert is a faculty member at Southeastern Seminary. Draper is pastor of First Baptist Church, Dallas, Tex.

And Hogue, former director of evangelism for the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, has recently become pastor of Eastside Baptist Church, Tulsa.

The program begins Monday, Feb. 13 at 6:30 p.m. and will conclude at luncheon on Wednesday. The Tuesday session will adjourn at 4:30 p.m. to allow participants to go out for visitation and addressing to their faith in Jesus Christ.

Another special feature of the conference will be individual sessions at which the participants may choose two concerning Bible doctrines including: the Bible, creation, the Holy Spirit, the atonement, election, Jesus Christ, and the church. Themes of the various conference sessions will be "The Tragedy of Humanity," "Love: The Nature of God," "Salvation: Our Only Hope," "Witnessing: By All Means to Save Some," and "Equipping the Church for Evangelistic Ministry." Knights' notes

The second meeting of the Pere Le Duc Council No. 1522 of the Knights of Columbus for the month of January will be Monday night at 7:30 p.m. We urge all members to attend.

We hope to see as many members as possible as we prepare for such upcoming events as the Footsie Roll Drive, the St. Patrick's Dance and the entering of a float in the Waveland St. Patrick's Day Parade.

As we begin a new year and anxiously prepare new activities, we can also take this opportunity to reflect on accomplishments of the council in 1981.

There were the clean-up of St. Mary's Cemetery initiated by the knights under George DiBenedetto. These clean-ups were one of the first cooperative efforts by the council and the Knights of Peter Claver, whose assistance and dedication to the program was invaluable. These clean-ups were commended by various organizations throughout the area. There was also the introduction of a Christmas party and a New Year's Eve party to the council.

The council also had another first when it hosted an initiation of First through Fourth Degrees of Knights. The first such event in Bay St. Louis in years. The event was highlighted by a parade of knights through the city streets. During 1981, the council representative efforts by the council and the Knights of Peter Claver, whose assistance and dedication to the program was invaluable. These clean-ups were commended by various organizations throughout the meetings, the knights learned about such various topics as abortion, drug abuse, and the Shroud of Turin.

The knights renewed their commitment to such organizations as the Boy Scouts. The knights also assisted those who needed help through its Christmas program for the needy and the Footsie Roll Drive, through which funds were donated to Hancock Industries in Bay St. Louis.

The council was recognized for its dramatic increase in membership and Grand Knight Bob Hubbard was cited by Supreme Council for his efforts in the membership drive. Pere Le Duc Council has been recognized as a revitalized institution, held in high regard by many, and looked upon for leadership and guidance by our community and church.

We have much to be proud of in 1981. But this is another year and our slate is now clean. We must continue to serve through our actions as an organization and as an individual knight.

Pere Le Duc Council needs your help to continue what it has done throughout the years and to initiate new ideas. Please come to the meetings and participate in your council.

CHRISTENING—Jason Michael Sick was Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sick Jr. of Bay St. Louis was baptized recently at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. Power company budget to top $63 million Mississippi Power Company's construction budget for 1982 is projected to be just over $63 million, according to Alan R. Barton, company president.

"Of the total expenditure, approximately $37 million is expected to be spent for improvements to Mississippi Power Company's generating plants. These improvements are designed to increase the operating reliability and efficiency of the plants," he explained.

Barton noted that an estimated $16.7 million is earmarked for work in 1982 on modifications to the boiler of a 600,000 kilowatt generating unit at the Watson Electric Generating Plant. The coal-fired generating unit was installed in 1975.

"Our service area continues to be one of the fastest growing regions in the state of Mississippi, and in 1982 we have budgeted over $8.8 million to accommodate the new business projected in the near future," Barton stated.

Other projected capital investment items include some $6.2 million for transmission facilities, $3.5 million for substation and distribution facilities, and $6.1 million for upgrading of general building facilities, vehicles, and related equipment.

Martin Marietta's Timmons tells projected workload

Two successful Space Shuttle launches highlighted 1981 as a banner year for the Michoud Division of Martin Marietta Aerospace.

The Michoud Division in New Orleans manufactures the external tank for NASA's Space Shuttle.

Those tanks on the first two flights performed almost flawlessly. "The first two Shuttle flights were tremendous accomplishments," said Kenneth P. Timmons, vice president and division general manager, "and we look forward to many similar achievements in the coming years."

Another tank was shipped to Kennedy Space Center, Fla., where it is being prepared for the Shuttle's third flight in March 1982. Eight more tanks are in various stages of production at the Michoud plant.

Under its NASA contract, Martin Marietta has modified the Michoud Assembly Facility for tank production, designed and fabricated three external tanks for test, and delivered three flight tanks and is under contract to deliver 10 more flight tanks and purchase components for 25 more.

"The cumulative value of the contract for this work is just over $1 billion, work under contract for future delivery by the Michoud division amounted to $329 million at year's end. Additions to this backlog during 1981 totaled $156 million.

Martin Marietta increased its New Orleans employment during 1981 by 940, bringing total employment to 3,440. The company expects to increase that number by 225 in 1982. The New Orleans payroll for 1981 was about $80 million; the 1982 payroll should be about $90 million.

"We have increased the number of employees by about one third," said Timmons. "These new employees will help us reach our goals for increased external tank production rates at a lower cost per tank during the next few years."

"We also made significant productivity improvements in 1981 to help us reach those production goals and to reduce the cost of the tanks," Timmons said.

Two large manufacturing cells were activated in 1981. In these cells, computer-controlled fixtures spray insulation material on external tank assemblies, greatly reducing the number of hours of labor on each tank. Quality engineers have also devised a new electro-mechanical system for checking tank welds. The new technique requires one-tenth the time to perform with 100 times the accuracy of the former method.

The weight of the external tank now being prepared for the Shuttle's third flight was reduced by about 600 pounds by eliminating a coating of white latex paint.

The third tank is light brown. Eliminating the white coating was part of a planned program to reduce the tank's weight to 16,000 pounds. The lighter weight tank design is complete. Structural tests were performed in 1981 and the first four light weight tanks are in various stages of production.

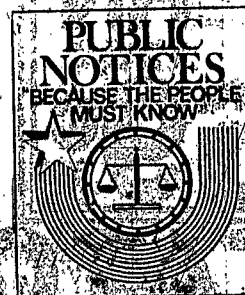

In July, the New Orleans division was awarded a $400,000 phase II contract to continue studying Shuttle-derived vehicles.

The advanced programs department also received two contracts to study the feasibility of hybrid rocket boosters, and costs of modifying the external tank and solid rocket boosters in conjunction with the Shuttle-derived vehicle.

spect the tank's thermal protection system.

"Our overriding concern for 1982 is for 100 percent mission success on all Shuttle flights," Timmons said. "We want the external tanks to function perfectly."

Martin Marietta will also continue facility modification and tool relocation work in 1982 to help reach a production rate of 24 tanks per year.
